

The New York Times

APPEARANCE OF DINOSAURS! THE DELEGATES WERE IN FOR A RUDE SHOCK.

A sudden and unexpected entrance of the dinosaurs and mad scientist! They shame the EU's effort to group the dinosaurs and nuke them in Russia, and argued that they were risking their Russian's life.

Photo by: Dominic Bryan, The New York Time

Tuesday, 16 July 2019

Dominic Bryan, Fredrick Charles

SINGAPORE - In the middle of the third session (Tue, Jul 16) some hybrids codenamed LIGMA barged through the EU's council room along with a mad scientist, shaming the EU's effort to gather the roaming LIGMA in Russia, and nuking them.

In the middle of the fourth session, the hybrid entered the council room again, out of the scientist's control this time. Luckily, the scientist was able to capture it and figured out that its weakness is an intense source of light. The delegates quickly took note of the situation and propose solutions to the issue.

At the end of the second debate, representatives have concluded to merge all their military forces in the European Union and recommended the opening of all their aerospace. Due to the dinosaurs weakness to light, they also decided to quarantine the dinosaurs and equip all military personnel with high light intensity weapons. Heat sensors and drones will be deployed to detect any hybrid that might be roaming free. The crisis is resolved.

As for the Human Rights Council, they decided to mobilise non-governmental organisations (NGOs) and humanitarian workers from more economically developed countries (MEDCs), to aid heavily-affected countries like Thailand, Norway and Singapore, by providing basic necessities such as food, water, shelter, and medical supplies. They also supported the mobilisation of police forces to control crowds and refugees, as well as providing security to borders to prevent illegal immigration. All immigrating citizens will now have to be exposed to intense ultraviolet light to determine whether they are hybrids. All hybrids will be quarantined and shot. All immigration officials will be screened hourly and exposed to UV light at all times. In addition, there will be mandatory blood tests for all citizens worldwide. Civillians are recommended to carry UV lights and used UV-emitting lightbulbs at home for their self defence. Protective gear should also be used to reduce the effects of UV light on the human body.

GA2 delegates came up with measures to provide humanitarian aid to victims. After much debate, the Delegates of Yemen and Oman now side with The Mad Scientist. The delegates concluded to create safe zones under military protection and immigration checkpoints which would have fingerprint tests to filter out L.I.G.M.A.s. The also placed emphasis on evacuation and aid from more well developed and less affected to help other countries.